Congratulations to Holley's Graduating Class of 2015

Seventy-seven seniors graduated from Holley Middle School/High School (MS/HS) on June 27. The boys wore black caps and gowns and the girls wore red. Fifty-three graduates will head off to college and vocational school, 17 will join the workforce, four will receive vocational training, two will join the military, one is undecided and another will return to her home country of Thailand. Graduates received $16,000 in local and community scholarships and awards, and $350,000 in specific college scholarships.

Class of 2015 President Jon Bower started the ceremony and Vice President Baily Papaj presented the Sports Boosters with a monetary donation as their class gift. Salutatorian Nicole Boyle and Valedictorian Emily Radford gave their speeches to the packed auditorium. Graduates were acknowledged with awards from Senior Class Advisors Suzanne Lepkowski and Kelly Marzano. Samantha Zelent, Holley MS/HS Social Worker and a Class of 1993 graduate of Holley, gave the commencement address. She told the class she had two wishes for them: to be proud of their accomplishments and where they came from, and to find love and happiness. "Go out into the world and do good," Zelent said.

After Holley staff announced the graduates' names and future plans, Board of Education President Brenda Swanger posed with the graduates after giving them their diplomas. Superintendent Robert D'Angelo and Principal Susan Cory, along with the rest of the Board of Education members, offered handshakes to the graduates on their way back to their seats on the stage. The High School Concert Band, directed by Music Director Dan Wakefield, played the music to begin and end the ceremony. Graduates adjourned to the gym for the traditional cap toss photo.

3-D Printer Visits Holley MS/HS Library

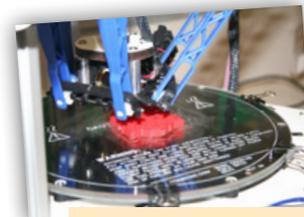

Recently, Holley MS/HS students had a chance to use a 3-D printer to create a variety of 3-D projects. The printer was on loan to the Holley MS/HS Library for a month from Monroe 2-Orleans BOCES (BOCES 2). The black and blue parts of the printer itself were made on a 3-D printer. A small group of tech-savvy students took on the responsibility of learning how the printer worked, how to use the software and how to design a project.

All students were given the opportunity to sign up to create projects on the printer that would take two hours or less to print. Over 60 projects were on the list, with cell phone cases being a popular choice. Some students used the 3-D printer to complete class projects. Junior Connor McGrath made a grey sphere as part of a computer design art project using CAD software.

Holley students were the first to use the 3-D printer. They were tasked with troubleshooting issues and discovering and collecting resources to share with the other schools who will borrow the printer in the fall. School Library Media Specialist Lisa Osur created a resources page on the library's website (<http://www.holleycsd.org/departments.cfm?subpage=1988830>). The site also features examples of some of the projects that students created on the 3-D printer. "I am learning from the students," said Osur, who helped BOCES 2 obtain a grant from the Rochester Regional Library Council to purchase the printer.

Soaring Awards

Seniors Emily Radford and Nicole Boyle received the “Soaring to New Heights” award at the Holley Board of Education meeting on May 19. This award is given monthly to deserving students and adults who go above and beyond expectations and who lend their skills and abilities to help others. Emily and Nicole received this award from Middle School/High School Principal Sue Cory for achieving Valedictorian and Salutatorian status, respectively, among the Top 10 of the senior class.

Emily was also honored with another “Soaring to New Heights” award from Cory at the Board of Education meeting on June 15. Emily received the award for starting a fundraiser to end multiple myeloma, a disease that Holley MS/HS Social Worker Samantha Zelent’s husband is battling. Emily sold bracelets and t-shirts and placed collection buckets in local businesses. She hopes that her fundraiser will provide some financial relief to the Zelent family while they seek medical treatment.

Debra Henry was also honored with a “Soaring to New Heights” award at the June 15 meeting. She received it from Superintendent Robert D’Angelo for her hard work and contributions to the Building/ Grounds Department. She works for this department and often brings in plants from her own garden to add to the landscaping at Holley Central Schools. “Her work has definitely made a positive impact on the district and has resulted in many great comments from staff, students and the community on the appearance of our grounds and flower beds,” said D’Angelo. “I am very appreciative of Deb’s hard work and dedication to the district.”

Students Learn from Artist Through Grant

Students in Karen Quaranto’s class recently learned about painting a mural from GO ART! artist Stacey Kirby. The students studied leaves from nature and Kirby showed the class how to draw them on paper. She spent time painting a mural in class so the students could observe how she worked. The class was able to venture to Holley Falls to see where Kirby finds some of her inspiration. The mural Kirby painted was unveiled to the community on June 17. Her visit to Holley was made possible by a grant from GO ART!

Yearbook Dedications

The students in both the Middle School and High School dedicated their yearbooks to math teachers this year. The Holley Middle School Yearbook was dedicated to Patti Gauer and the Holley High School Yearbook was dedicated to Jason Cole. The teachers were nominated by students in both schools.

Family Fun Fair a Success at Holley

The Holley Teachers Association (HTA) Public Relations (PR) Committee sponsored its first Family Fun Fair at Holley Elementary on May 13. Students and their families paid a $1 entry fee and had a chance to participate in fun activities at seven stations inside and outside the school from 3:30-5 p.m. Each student received a stamp once they completed an activity. They had opportunities to make a bookmark; bowl; play Kan Jam, bean bag toss and ring toss; visit a fire truck; and make veggie people and tree pods out of fruit. Each student left the Fun Fair with a free book.

There was also a "Pass the Boot" opportunity for adults to make donations to the Holley Fire Department. Over $250 was donated to the fire department through Fun Fair admission fees and "Pass the Boot" contributions.

★ Memorial Day Assembly ★

On May 21, elementary students participated in a Memorial Day assembly in the Intermediate Gym to honor those who lost their lives serving our country. The local veterans helped out by posting and retiring the colors. The Elementary Chorus and Beginner and Concert Bands performed several patriotic songs. Students from Leigh Weaver and Tara Bannister's class recited poems. Plaques were dedicated to Holley residents Walter LeFevre, a Korean War veteran, and William A. Smith, who served in the Army. The plaques were placed in the courtyard off the main foyer.

Flag Day Celebration

The Elementary Intermediate Gym was full of students and staff dressed in red, white and blue the morning of June 12. They were all there to celebrate Flag Day. The Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts led the Pledge of Allegiance. The Elementary Chorus sang, the Beginner and Concert Bands played and everyone participated in a sing-a-long of "This Land is Your Land." Members of the military were also present and were recognized for their service to our country.

Students of the Month for May and June were recognized and Good Citizen Awards were handed out. Nicole Boyle, the salutatorian of the Class of 2015, announced the Catherine B. Press Award winners, Cora Bennage and Mason Neale. Boyle has a special connection to this award, since Press, a Holley graduate and long-time elementary school secretary, was her great-grandmother.

The Elementary Student Council presented Holley Community Free Library Director Sandy Shaw with a check for $1,424.21, the final result of their year-long "Raise the Roof" fundraiser. Retired Holley art teacher Larry Dabney designed the check so that the outside of it looked like a book entitled, "How to Fix a Roof."

Walking Fieldtrips for Elementary Students

Second grade students continued their walking fieldtrips to local businesses in May and June to reinforce the social studies standards of focusing on communities.

Students in Christine Langelotti's class explored the First Niagara Bank and Wastewater Treatment Plant.

At the bank, they learned about the bank vault, safety deposit boxes, ATM machine and teller line. They also had a chance to watch the security cameras. They were sent back to school with lollipops.

At the treatment plant, they learned what happens to anything flushed down a sink or toilet, and which materials are sent to the landfill versus which are used for fertilizer. They saw the different stages of how water is disinfected with bacteria to recycle it safely into clean water. The students learned that cooking grease should not be put down the sink or garbage disposal. It should be placed in the garbage because the grease needs to be removed from the water.

Students in Deb Koehler and Gina Cliff's class went to the Holley Village Office.

They had a chance to simulate a Village of Holley Board meeting. Students played the roles of mayor and board trustees as they held a hearing on a fictional amusement park coming to town. They learned about the bills that are paid at the office and how electric meters are read electronically. They saw the old vault that houses property documents from the 1800s. Students were treated to a snack of juice and cookies before heading back to school.

They learned that the produce in Save-A-Lot is bought locally year-round and the sausage is made at the store. They saw how a hand jack works to move pallets of food around; how the cardboard baling machine helps recycle cardboard; and how meat is cut and packaged. The students sat in front of the store on benches made out of recycled plastic. They were sent back to school with a bag of apples.

At the post office, the students learned about post office boxes. They also heard how each postal worker delivers mail to about 500 houses on a driving route or 400 houses on a walking route each day. They learned about stamps and how new ones are created each year. They had a chance to hand-cancel a letter that they sent to family members. They were cautioned to stay away from a mail truck when it's traveling and to obtain permission from an adult before retrieving the mail from a mailbox. The students were sent back to school with coloring books.

Theatre Guild Performance

On May 20, Holley Elementary Theatre Guild students performed a social responsibility play entitled "Who Me? Yes You!" for half of the student body in a morning assembly. The play was written by Michelle R. Davis. The students "filmed" a series of commercials, ranging from the cast of Star Wars working at Light Sabers R Us to a company doling out advice and self-defense methods to customers at Bully Busters Co. One of the more realistic commercials was a mom driving her children to school and all the bad habits her children caught her doing. Superheroes were also featured preaching peaceful resolution and "super social responsibility." The cast also competed in the Social Responsibility Olympics, were pirates on the "Good Citizen Ship" and interacted with aliens on the "Friendship Enterprise." The students learned lessons about not judging someone based on appearance, learning to get along with people who are different from them, practicing safe behavior, following the code of conduct, and striving to reach peaceful resolutions to conflicts.

Pre-K Graduation

Amie Callen and Lori Passarell's Pre-K class held their graduation ceremony on June 16. They performed 10 songs and told the audience what they want to be when they grow up. Their career aspirations ranged from ballerina to racecar driver. Congratulations to the Pre-K graduates!

Kindergarten Graduation

Sixty-four students in Kris D'Angelo's, Meg Schubert's, Leigh Weaver's and Cathy Mason's kindergarten classes participated in a graduation ceremony on June 22. They performed a variety of songs including "You Are My Sunshine," "Alphabet Twist" and The Beatles' "Love Me Do." Some students played instruments, many of them danced and one class signed the alphabet in American Sign Language. Congratulations to the kindergarten graduates and good luck in first grade!

Sixth Grade Graduation

Seventy-four sixth graders received certificates of graduation on June 23 as they left their elementary school days behind. They proudly crossed the stage to shake hands with Superintendent Robert D'Angelo and nervously smiled for photos. They also received numerous awards for their involvement in school activities and academic achievements. The students received memory books put together by parent Theresa Neale that reflected their years at Holley Elementary.

Congratulations to these students and keep an eye on the future Class of 2021!

Senior Breakfast

The parents of the senior class hosted a breakfast for the graduating students on June 25 in the MS/HS Dining Hall. The parents also put together a slideshow of photos of the seniors over the years and gave each of them a gift bag containing a disc of the slideshow, a Holley flash drive and candy. Some parents and many of the staff from both the Elementary and Middle/High Schools dined with the students.

At the breakfast, senior athletes received plaques from the Sports Boosters. The Sports Booster Scholarships were announced, with Samantha Barniak and Lucas Silvis as the recipients. Class president Jon Bower announced all the graduates. Students were asked to write thank you notes to the adult role model in their life and to a Holley teacher, and to distribute them before they left for graduation rehearsal.

Teacher Mark Thomas gave a speech to the students, asking them what kind of foundation they had built for themselves and what kind of house they were going to build on top of it. He told them to remember four things as they start their new life as graduates: 1) live your life the way you choose, 2) laugh often, 3) love everyone for who they are and who they are going to be, and 4) learn constantly. He told them all the experiences they will go through will make sense five years from now. "Start building the rest of your house because your foundation is sound," Thomas said.

MS/HS Awards Ceremony

On June 9, the middle and high school students received their awards. Students received academic honors in every subject area. High honor roll and perfect attendance recipients were also honored. Many seniors and juniors received scholarships from colleges and local community groups. New this year was a Freshman Fab 5 Award to five freshmen who were strong students academically and had high rates of attendance, positive attitudes, great behavior and citizenship at Holley. They received t-shirts along with their certificates.

Samantha Barniak Receives Comeback Award

LeRoy Physical Therapy and Village Fitness recently awarded their 11th Annual Comeback Award to Holley senior Samantha Barniak. She was the Varsity Captain and leader for Girls' Basketball during the 2014-15 season. She played through a GI tract condition that required her to be hospitalized at one point. Despite the setback, Barniak was among the Genesee Region leaders in points, rebounds, and assists. She played on the Varsity team since seventh grade, while maintaining high grades and showing exemplary character.

Student athletes are eligible for the Comeback Award when receiving athletic training services from LeRoy Physical Therapy. The Comeback Award recognizes a student-athlete who has faced adversity through his/her athletic season, yet persevered and made an outstanding achievement or meaningful contribution to the team.

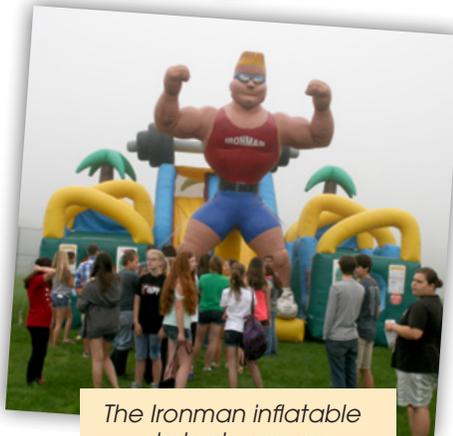

Academic Field Day

Academic Field Day was held on June 15 at the MS/HS. This was a free event for students in grades 7-12 to celebrate all the hard work they've done throughout the year. MS/HS students earned points for their grades, attendance at review classes and their scores on state assessments and exams. The points were redeemed for activities and food provided at the field day. Grades eligible for points ranged from 65 to 100 percent. The higher the quarterly grades, the more points earned.

Students were greeted on their way in to school by Security Officer Mike Roffe playing the bagpipes. Roffe is a member of the Gates Keystone Club Police Pipes & Drums. Students had a chance to rotate through several stations during Academic Field Day such as review classes, popcorn and snow cones in the Dining Hall, lip sync battle in the chorus room, and inflatable challenges Ironman and Bungee Basketball on the athletic fields. They also had a chance to throw whipped cream pies at teachers Dan Wakefield, Dawn Trask, Greg Parzych, Jim Di Sessa, Nick D'Amuro, and Shawna Benzan, and Principal Sue Cory. This was a good opportunity for students to have some fun before starting Regents exams the next day.

Jump Rope for Heart Results

Holley elementary students raised $4,283.30 this year in the Jump Rope for Heart campaign for the American Heart Association. They had 72 students participate in the event on April 11 with the assistance of two student volunteers, eight staff volunteers and 16 parent volunteers. Karin Richards' fourth grade class raised the most money - $663 - with five students participating. Her student, Ryan SanFilippo, came in first overall among all the elementary students with his individual fundraising total of $530. Emma Kingston-Gallup came in second with $201 raised, and Harleigh Andrews and Lance Babcock tied for third with $155 raised each. Over the past 31 years, Holley elementary students have helped raise $243,583.11 for the American Heart Association. "Many thanks to all who volunteered to help and to those who participated in the event," said Physical Education Teacher Lisa Campbell. "Nice job!"

Faculty Field Days

The Elementary School hosted Faculty Field Days on June 15. Students had a chance to watch the Holley staff participate in field day events. The staff competed against each other in a tug of war contest. The students had a chance to throw a plate of whipped cream in the face of the staff. The students really look forward to this day each year.

Holley MS/HS Library Shares Resources with Public Library During the Summer

Since 2013, the Holley MS/HS Library has sent books to the Holley Community Free Library for the summer so that students can continue to read popular titles during their break. Thirty-three popular works were sent to the library that first summer; over 60 books were sent this summer.

School Library Media Specialist Lisa Osur started the project by asking avid MS/HS readers what books they would like to have access to during the summer. She added to the list books that have been frequently circulated in the school library. Osur then checked the public library's catalog to obtain titles that they didn't have or provided them with extra copies of popular books from the school library. She encouraged students to obtain a public library card if they didn't have one already.

The books are easily identified in the public library with a sticker featuring the Holley Hawk logo and a statement that reads "On Loan from the Holley JrSr High School Library Summer 2015." Sandy Shaw, Director of the Holley Community Free Library, created a display showing the collaboration between libraries. Osur also created a display in the school library letting students know that their favorite titles will be available during the summer and encouraging them to keep reading.

ACT for Education Website Features News from Holley

ACT for Education is a special awareness campaign coordinated by the Monroe County Superintendent's Public Education Advocacy Committee (MCSPEAC). ACT stands for "A Community Together" and what makes it unique is that it involves public schools in the Monroe 1 and Monroe 2–Orleans BOCES service areas, as well as area businesses and community supporters. The goal of the campaign is to encourage involvement in public schools. The new materials released this spring include lawn signs and posters in each district's communities. You can also visit the ACT website at www.actforeducation.org and view news stories about Holley Schools. There is also a lot of great information about our district under the About Our Districts tab.

Our District's Mission
We, the students, parents, staff and community of the Holley Central School District, will work together to provide the opportunity and means for all students to acquire the skills, knowledge and attitudes to become responsible and productive citizens in a diverse and changing society. The ideal is to instill a passion for lifelong learning.
