

Lots of Heart at Holley

Students support AHA, make healthy recipes

Holley elementary students had an extra emphasis on heart in February. They supported the American Heart Association (AHA) in two different ways and made heart-healthy versions of favorite recipes.

The Elementary Student Council encouraged all staff and students to wear red on Feb. 5. For a $5 donation, staff could write their name on a red paper heart that was then placed inside the big heart the Student Council made in the hallway. Those who donated could also choose between a Go Red dress pin or bracelet. Student Council collected $205 for the AHA.

Superintendent's Message

Upcoming Grades 3-8 Assessments

Dear Holley Central Community,

The second semester of each school year is always challenging as there is so much to accomplish during those 20 weeks of school. It is also an exciting time with all of the student-centered activities such as the prom, sixth grade moving up ceremonies, musicals, athletics and awards programs. The grades 3-8 assessments in math and ELA are also scheduled during this semester. Our new Commissioner of Education, MaryEllen Elia, is working with the Board of Regents and educators from throughout the state to maximize the benefits of teaching and learning in New York State. The Commissioner has determined that students and teachers would be "held harmless" from the results of state assessments until 2020. The teacher/principal evaluation process will have a four-year transition period while changes that will impact the assessments directly will include: modifying the standards, shortening state exams and collaboration among all stakeholders, including teachers, parents and support staff.

Our principals, teachers and staff are working very hard each and every day to provide the very best in classroom instruction for your child. I am very proud of the hard work and dedication that takes place each day in our classrooms. I am pleased to observe first-hand the good things that are happening in Holley schools. We will continue to partner with you so that we can assist every student in fulfilling his/her potential. Please feel free to contact us if you have any questions or concerns, as it is imperative that home and school work together. As your schedule permits, I also urge you to attend all of the outstanding student-centered activities that take place both during the school day and after school hours so that you can see how much talent our students possess and the dedication of our staff. I am confident that in going forward, we will continue to build bridges between home and school and by doing so, create extended opportunities and success for every Holley student. Thank you for all that you have done for our schools and all that you continue to do!

Holley Librarian Visits Albany

On Jan. 12, Holley MS/HS Librarian Lisa Osur attended a review session for the New York State (NYS) Department of Education in Albany. NYS librarians were solicited to apply for committee membership; members were tasked with reviewing the test given to library media graduate students seeking Masters in Library Science (MLS) certification. Osur applied to the committee because she thought it would be a good learning experience. She was excited to be selected. "I attended because it was a way for me to influence and advance my profession," said Osur. The committee was made up of 12 librarians from all over the state, who reviewed 50 questions and were thoughtful in their suggested updates. "I am very proud to have been involved and hope to take part again in the future," said Osur.

Financial Aid Night

by Kristina Tese, Guidance Counselor

On Jan. 14, Joe Bailey, Director of Financial Aid and Assistant Dean for Enrollment Services at Genesee Community College, presented information to parents and students on financial aid. The evening was very informative and all present were fully engaged. Thank you, Joe, for another successful Financial Aid Night!

A special thank you goes out to Cameron Bennage for his mastery of the sound and lighting board, and his assistance with the PowerPoint presentation. Your assistance is always appreciated! Awesome job, Cameron!

Lots of Heart at Holley

That same day, the FIT4U! cooking and nutrition class helped prepare a football-themed lunch for the elementary school in honor of the Super Bowl. The class learned healthier ways to make different foods for lunch. The students decided to plan a Super Bowl party. They found recipes to make food with low-fat or fat-free ingredients. They also tried to think of ways to incorporate more fruits and vegetables into their menu.

The menu included spinach dip served with whole grain pita bread slices and flatbread pizza topped with fresh vegetables such as spinach, peppers, onion, tomato and black olives. For dessert, the students mixed low-fat vanilla yogurt, light Cool Whip, and chopped strawberries and pineapple, and froze the mixture between two graham crackers. The FIT4U! class also made decorations to decorate the cafeteria. The students had a lot of fun learning about different measurements, how to read a recipe, and how to make recipes healthier, but still have good flavor.

On Feb. 6, Holley Elementary School held its annual Jump Rope for Heart event. More than 100 students signed up to participate.

Holley Wrestling Coach John Grillo

Achieves 700th Win

Jan. 20 became a record-breaking night for Holley Varsity Wrestling Coach John Grillo. It marked the night of his 700th win as a wrestling coach. Holley defeated tough competitor Lyndonville 54-35 in the Genesee Region match hosted at Lyndonville High School. Grillo's wins have spanned more than 40 years, with 30 of them at Holley Central School District (HCSD) and 12 of them at Pavilion Central School District. He now holds the record for the most wins in New York State.

Grillo has been a grade K-12 physical education teacher at HCSD since 1989. He has been a wrestling coach for his entire teaching career. Grillo also runs the Hawk Junior Wrestling Club at Holley Middle School/High School and the Holley Hawk Youth Club at Holley Elementary School. His Holley Hawk wrestlers have won 20 Genesee Region League titles and 11 Section V Championships. While coaching at Pavilion, one of his wrestlers also earned a Sectional Title. Grillo was named Genesee Region Coach of the Year 15 times and Section V Coach of the Year six times.

Grillo has maintained an enthusiasm for the sport and his players through all of his coaching seasons. Even though retirement is not as far off as it once was, he is passionate about continuing to coach and teach at HCSD. "Without the support of the administration, faculty, staff, parents, community members, coaches and finally, the student athletes, this accomplishment would not have happened," said Grillo. "I love what I do, as both teacher and coach, and I still have the passion to build young lives."

The youngest, Andrew Grillo, was also a state representative and the first-ever NYSPHSAA State Champion from Holley, as well as a USA Wrestling All American. All three brothers were multiple Section V Class Champions and National Academic All Americans in high school and competed in collegiate wrestling. Ashley, Adam and Andrew assist John in coaching the Holley wrestling teams. Ashley and Andrew both work at HCSD; Ashley as the Holley Elementary assistant vice principal and Andrew as a grade K-12 physical education teacher.

New Vaccine Requirement for Sept. 2016

On Oct. 26, 2015, New York State Public Health Law was amended to require children entering or attending seventh and 12th grades on or after Sept. 1, 2016 to receive an adequate dose or doses of vaccine against meningococcal disease as recommended by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP).

Meningococcal meningitis is a serious disease which can lead to death within hours. Survivors may be left with severe disabilities, including the loss of limbs, cognitive deficits, paralysis, deafness or seizures.

The ACIP recommendations for meningococcal vaccine are:

- A single dose of vaccine against meningococcal serogroups A, C, W-135 and Y should be administered to all adolescents at age 11 or 12 years.
- A second (booster) dose of the vaccine should be administered at age 16 years.
 - o The booster dose is not necessary for adolescents who receive the first dose at 16 years of age or older.
 - o The minimum interval between doses is eight weeks.
- A serogroup B meningococcal vaccine series may be administered to adolescents and young adults 16-23 years of age, at the discretion of the healthcare provider. The preferred age for MenB vaccine is 16-18 years of age.

Holley First and Second Graders Learn About Healthy Choices

In December, Karen Blank, from The Whole Approach Studio, led Holley Elementary students in first and second grades through a workshop entitled "Healthy Snack Cooking & Games." She met with 24 students after school twice a week and taught them about nutrition, games to stay active, how to make their own healthy snacks and how to make healthy living choices. The students were joined by their parents for the final workshop on the evening of Dec. 17, where they set the table together and prepared a healthy dinner of homemade ravioli and salad.

Blank's workshops were offered free to Holley Central School District (HCSD) students as part of the three-year Carol M. White Physical Education Program (PEP) grant the district received last year. HCSD regularly offers before and after school programs to grades K-12 students as part of its FIT4U! program, made possible by the PEP grant. The FIT4U! program focuses on teaching students about fitness and nutrition through a variety of activities and educational programs.

Students took pre- and post-tests evaluating how much they knew about healthy choices at the start and conclusion of the workshop. Their knowledge of healthy behaviors increased from 61 percent to 99 percent.

They tracked their minutes all through holiday break until the program ended on Jan. 1. Their reading logs were turned in upon their return to school on Jan. 4 and winners were revealed at the assembly on Jan. 14. The PTSA sponsored this event to encourage students to enjoy reading. The winners rode to lunch in style on Jan. 20. The winners were: Rachel Kinsey, Kira Gantman, Sara Kelly, Ava Quincey, Harlee Schicker, Nicholas VanLogten, Allyssa Jones, Michael Schoonmaker, Elizabeth Kinsey, Leila Stonewell, Mia Thom, Benjamin Dale, Makayla Spence and Diana Escobar-Escamilla.

Humanities Class Explores the Future

The Holley High School Humanities Class presented innovations to a community board made up of Holley faculty, staff, administration and a board member on Jan. 22. Each student gave a PowerPoint presentation on his/her idea, which ranged from obtaining the perfect manicure at home to creating a turbo charger for cars to use fuel more efficiently. Students researched how their innovations could be marketed and priced, what materials would be required for development, the effect their innovations would have on the job market, and what changes would need to take place in the environment, government or social systems to make their innovations a reality. In one student's case, he wanted to make everyone's living environment a virtual reality; for example, he proposed owning a virtual pet without having all the responsibilities that pet ownership entails (food, exercise, training, medical care, etc.).

Many ideas seemed possible to implement in the near future. For example, the idea to string lights above parking spaces that would be activated by a weight and motion sensor to indicate through a color system which spaces were occupied, available or had cars exiting might be adopted by a local mall during the holiday season. The idea to run a bakery that incorporates medical marijuana into baked goods for those who have a prescription for it might not be too far off, in light of Rochester opening its first medical marijuana clinic recently.

Some ideas were more ambitious and would take longer to implement, such as building an international space station for anyone to learn about space and devising a filtration device to remove greenhouse gases from the environment. Other ideas fell in the middle, with the idea to offer mental health services to convicted prisoners while they are serving their sentences requiring a lot of political and social change, and developing the right product to harness solar power to charge your cell phone while you held it requiring scientific experimentation. Some ideas are already in use, such as using a phone app to wirelessly charge your devices or inserting a noise blocker in your ear to avoid unwanted noises, but they just require fine-tuning through the use of new technology to achieve students' desired results.

"We have had some great discussions in class and we've investigated subjects that the students wanted to learn more about. The class has formed their own culture and they are very protective and supportive of each other, which is nice to see."

- Suzanne Lepkowski

The Humanities class created the "Innovation Forum" to mark the end of the first semester for this new course offered jointly by the Social Studies and English departments at Holley. Teachers Mike Crissman and Suzanne Lepkowski taught the class of 14 students. They broke the semester into three segments, with students examining the past, present and future of how the human race and social culture have evolved. A Humanities II class is offered in the second semester, with about 12 students enrolled. "The students have really shaped the class and what we cover each semester," said Lepkowski. "We have had some great discussions in class and we've investigated subjects that the students wanted to learn more about. The class has formed their own culture and they are very protective and supportive of each other, which is nice to see." The class also incorporated a community service event into the first semester. In December, they hosted a holiday photo session, where the class took holiday photos of local families and offered refreshments. They accepted donations of new toys for the Gary the Happy Pirate Toy Fund and non-perishable food items and cash donations for the community center. The students have started discussing what they would like to offer the community in the second semester.

by Julie Wantuck, High School English Teacher

to our winners!

English teachers Suzanne Lepkowski and Julie Wantuck encouraged their ninth and 10th grade students to enter the second annual Clarkson Historical Society Handwriting Contest. Over 100 students from area schools entered the contest. Kennedy Jones, Madison Marsh and Dakota Thompson earned the top three places in the contest. Kennedy, a sophomore; Madison, a freshman; and Dakota, a sophomore, placed first, second and third, respectively, in the high school category. The cursive handwriting contest is a celebration of John Hancock's Jan. 23 birthday; he is celebrated for having the most prominent signature on the Declaration of Independence.

The three Holley students were honored in an awards ceremony at the Clarkson Academy on Jan. 23. They received a certificate and medal. Bookmarks with Kennedy's handwriting and picture will be placed in the Community Free Library in Holley.
